DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of claims 18-32 in the reply filed on 9/23/2005 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the searches for group I, II and III would be co-extensive. This is not found persuasive because claims 1-17 would be classified in a different class than claims 18-32.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 18-32 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 18-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Renkes et al. (US 6,331,742).

Regarding claim 18, Renkes et al. disclose a module (10, figure 1) comprising:

- a first surface/ base member (12);
- a plurality of sidewalls (16a-16d) that extend from the first surface and are integrally formed with the first surface (12), said sidewalls extend from the first surface and form a compartment (figure 1) that is sized to at least partially receive a run capacitor (68a-b) assembly therein;
- at least one aperture (70) extending through said cover internal to the compartment (figures 1-2);
- a second surface/cover (not shown, column 4, lines 40-41), opposite to the first surface and;
- a plurality of projections (102, 104, 106) extending from the second surface (figures 4-5).

Regarding claim 19, Renkes et al. disclose the cover sidewalls extend substantially perpendicularly from the cover first surface (figure 1).

Regarding claim 20, Renkes et al. disclose the run capacitor (68a-b) assembly comprising a run capacitor and at least one electrical terminal (24a-b) is positioned within the cover compartment such that the terminal extends through the aperture (figure 1).

Regarding claim 21, Renkes et al. disclose the run capacitor assembly is potted in the cover compartment (figure 1).

Regarding claim 22, Renkes et al. further comprises at least one aperture (70) extending through the cover external to the cover compartment to receive at least one electrical terminal assembly (figures 1-2).

Regarding claim 23, Renkes et al. further comprises a wall (76) integrally formed with the cover first surface, said wall circumscribing the aperture (figure 1).

Regarding claim 24, Renkes et al. disclose a portion of the cover extends into the cover compartment (figure 1).

Regarding claim 25, Renkes et al. disclose the plurality of projections are configured to extend into a base compartment to engage a plurality of components disposed internally in the base compartment (figures 4-5).

Regarding claim 26, Renkes et al. disclose an electrical connector assembly (figure 1) comprising:

- a first surface/ base member (12);
- a plurality of sidewalls (16a-16d) that extend from the first surface and are integrally formed with the first surface (12), said sidewalls extend from the first surface and form a platform (78) that is sized to at least partially receive a run capacitor (68a-b) assembly thereon;
- at least one aperture (70) extending through said platform cover internal to the compartment (figures 1-2);
- a second surface/cover (not shown), opposite to the first surface and;
a plurality of projections (102, 104 and 106) extending from the second surface (figures 4-5).

Regarding claim 27, Renkes et al. disclose the cover sidewalls extend substantially perpendicularly from the cover first surface (column 4, lines 40-42).

Regarding claim 28, Renkes et al. disclose the run capacitor (68a-b) assembly comprising a run capacitor and at least one electrical terminal (24a-b) is positioned within the platform such that the terminal extends through the aperture (figure 1).

Regarding claim 29, Renkes et al. disclose an enclosure couples to the cover circumscribing the platform and enclosing the run capacitor assembly, the enclosure filled by a potting material thereby encapsulating the run capacitor assembly (figure 1).

Regarding claim 30, Renkes et al. further comprises at least one aperture (70) extending through the cover external to the platform to receive at least one electrical terminal assembly (figures 4-5).

Regarding claim 31, Renkes et al. further comprises a wall (76) integrally formed with the cover first surface, said wall circumscribing the aperture (figure 1).

Regarding claim 32, Renkes et al. disclose the plurality of projections are configured to extend into a base compartment to engage a plurality of components disposed internally in the base compartment (figures 4-5).
